

Janusz Poliński: White Paper – Disabled and Rail Transport

In this article there was introduced substantive content of „White Paper – Disabled and Rail Transport’ study” and the aim that its authors had in mind. Particular attention was given to recommendations addressed to everyone involved in removing technical, architectural and organizational barriers that limit availability of rail transport for disabled passengers. Article introduces content of the study which is available on www for everyone interested in this subject.

Keywords: disabled passenger, availability of rail transport, adjustment process