

Paweł Winciorek: Operation Tests of Rail-to-Road Vehicle Type CRAB 3100E

The article presents operation and performance tests of locotractor (rail-road vehicle) type CRAB 3100E intended to operate shunting and manoeuvring movements on railway sidings. The vehicle has been assessed basing on technical documentation provided by the principal (contracting party), as well as on essential tests carried out by the Railway Research Institute.

Keywords: railway transport, service tests, rail-road vehicle