

Renata Barcikowska: Research and Development and Investment Projects Carried out by Railway Research Institute

The article presents problems regarding acquiring funds intended for research and development and investment activities by the Railway Research Institute. The research methods used in the article include the analysis of source materials and a case study.

Keywords: research institutes, research funds, projects, research and development